

Sin is No Joking Matter

Judges 14:10-14

Introduction

- Failure is a common trait among us all. There is not one of us who can cast a stone for there is not a single one of us that is without sin. We all fail and come short of the glory of God on a daily basis. As long as we are in this body of flesh, failure will be a part of life for it is our nature. To commit sin is one thing, but to continue and remain in sin is an entirely different story.
- In the scripture before us we see an unchanged and unrepentant Samson. We have seen how he has been going down, and as we look at the scene before us, we see how Samson continues in his sin. In fact, we see him actually treating his sin as if it were nothing more than a joke.

Discussion

◇ Samson's Infatuation with Sin

- Judges 14:10-14

◇ Samson's Indulgence in Sin

- Judges 10:10-11

◇ Samson's Indifference to Sin

- Judges 10:12-14

Conclusion

- Is there a Samson in this place today? Is there an infatuation, an indulgence, and indifference to sin? Let me close by saying that sin is no joking matter! Samson will testify to that in the days to come.
